

Continued Growth in Demand as a Result of Greater Electronics Use

In addition to the proliferation of smartphones, the greater use of electronics in automobiles and other products that had remained free of electronics until now continues to drive the demand for electronic components.

Electronic devices
¥67.3trillion*

Devices that apply functions of electrons to perform active tasks such as amplification

|                       |
|-----------------------|
| Semiconductor devices |
| Integrated circuits   |
| Electron tubes        |

General electronic components

¥25.4trillion***

Components that work with and supplement electronic devices

